Ladies and Gentlemen

I stand here to give a vote of thanks to the various individuals and organizations that have made our ceremony this week a success.

I will start by thanking our Vice-Chancellor, Prof. George Magoha, for not only allocating time for this ceremony to be held, but also facilitating the Academic Division who are the main organizers of this function.

Special thanks go to our many donors who have every year donated prizes in the form of cash, trophies books and other awards to our students, whether the graduating class each year or other awards within the course of a students study. It is these donors who form the backbone of the prizes presentation since we would not have the ceremony without their valued donations.

Our thanks also go to the parents and guardians of all our current and former students, from which we get prize recipients, as it is due to the fact that they gave us their sons and daughters that we ended up having such successful students.

We cannot forget our teaching staff, indeed the whole faculty, who through hard work and determination managed to produce students worthy of the awards given out today. In this regard I would like to thank our Chairmen of departments, Deans and Directors of faculties, Institutes and Schools for their key role in the “production” of a graduate. They are the owners of the process at their various level, under the guidance of the college Principals. To all of them, we say thank you very much.

We cannot forget our other partners in the high education sector who directly or indirectly, play a significant role in the running of the University and ultimately in assisting us realize our objectives. We therefore thank the Government of Kenya through the Ministry of Education for its generous assistance the University, the Higher Education Loans Board, the Commission for Higher Education and many other donor agencies who play a role in the students life on campus.

We finally wish to thank all of you, our visitors, donors, parents, friends, staff and students for availing yourself this morning for the prize giving ceremony. It is your presence that has made the function colorful.

We thank all of you and may the almighty God Bless you.
